

How to measure for Bay Windows

Bay windows are a stunning feature in any home, but often present quite a challenge to dress. We have a specialist team who are here to help you create the perfect solution for your unique window.

All you need do is supply us with a paper template of your window, which is very easy to make. Just follow the simple steps below. (For 90 degree angles a basic sketch with dimensions will suffice.)

1 Make a template:

- Use something robust like wallpaper or brown paper for the template - newspaper is too flimsy. An old roll of wallpaper is ideal.
- Push the paper to the back of the window and fold the corners to follow the angles (figure A). Do this at ground level, not at pole height.
- Cut away the excess paper to show the angles (figure B).
- Mark on the template where you would like the finials to begin.
- Mark on the template where you would like the brackets to be (figure C).
- Let us know the depth of your skirting board so we can take this into account.
- Let us know if you have a deep window sill which your curtain needs to fall in front of.

We will make the necessary allowances for the depth of the bracket from the wall and any sills you've advised us of.

2 Choose your pole diameter

We offer our bay window poles in two diameters, 20mm and a more substantial 25mm option.

3 Choose a finish

Beeswax

Matt Black

Polished

Clay

Old Ivory

Mercury

4 Choose your finials

We offer a wide selection of finial designs, to complement your forged iron pole. Choose from over 20 styles, from traditional to modern, all beautifully handcrafted.

5 Bay window brackets

We offer two styles of brackets the classic Chapel and more formal Brett, both work with our clever passing system.

Our clever passing system enables curtains to be drawn around the curve of your bay window. The adjustable passing brackets will be used along side your choice of Chapel or Brett brackets and work with our innovative passing rings.

6 Draw Rod

This simple addition can be very useful especially for high curtain poles. Designed to hang discreetly behind the curtain edge, the simple forged detail clips easily to a curtain ring to help you draw your the curtains more easily without marking them.

7 Choose your holdbacks

We make an extensive range of elegant curtain holdbacks, in a choice of styles, sizes and finishes.

8 Delivery

Your pole will be made in two parts with a central joiner for ease of delivery and handling. Delivery is just £5 per order within mainland UK.
